SafePoint

Currently building visitors write down their names on a paper log. Paper logs can be very difficult to decipher; hand writing can be illegible, it is nearly impossible to find a name without knowing the exact time the person entered the building, and paper logs can be lost or misplaced. An electronic visitor logging system such as SafePoint solves these problems. With SafePoint a visitor can swipe their driver license, their membership card, or a staff member can type in their name. SafePoint will log a visitor into the building as well as search a list of people you do not want in the building that have been banned or suspended as well as registered sex offenders if you choose. Below is a list of system highlights.

- Hosted turnkey solution: no software to install, no server to maintain.
- Accessible anywhere the Internet is available.
- Accepts Driver's Licenses and your own identification card for quick processing.
- Instantaneously search name and known aliases of any unwelcome people including registered sex offenders in Ohio and Pennsylvania (national registered sex offender search is also available). Match probability, name, alias, physical description, addresses and photos are displayed.
- Log the date and time of every visitor.
- Track statistical information such as busiest hours, day of week, month, and zip codes.
- Able to add your own banned and suspended visitors from your facility to your restricted database.
